

OPEN HEARTS
OPEN MINDS
OPEN DOORS
AMERICAN VALUES

Annual Report 2017–2018

FROM USCRI'S PRESIDENT AND CEO

We live in interesting times. Beginning with the Chinese Exclusion Act of 1882, America's door to immigration has been periodically closed. Today America's door is being slammed shut with reductions in the refugee admissions ceiling and greater restrictions on legal pathways to immigration.

Yet, America's history celebrates the exalted role immigration has played in our nation-building. We believe that our American character is based on fundamental values that embrace the newcomer with equal rights and equal opportunity. In return, America prospers—built by those who have placed their bets on the idea of America, e pluribus unum.

In these interesting times, America's closed door to immigration reflects the fear and uncertainty of a world moving at breakneck speeds, causing us to temporarily lose our footing. At USCRI, we are working to restore confidence in our immigrant experience and uphold the centuries old values of America—welcoming the stranger.

Open heart. Open mind. Open door. In the end, these fundamental American values will prevail.
